The Troubles of East St. Louis

The Belleville Guards are being supplied with blankets and commissary stores in sufficient quantity to indicate that they will not be sent home for several days. He desired that the statement of a Buffalo paper to the effect that he and Miss Berry had been arrested be contradicted, as there was no truth in it. The Troubles of East St. Louis.

St. Louis, July 24.—A visit to East St. Louis this morning revealed the fact that everything is quiet there. The Belleville Guards bivouncked in the market house last night and to-day are using that building as a barracks. Sheriff Weber says he will keep the military there as long as it is necessary to preserve peace, but thinks their presence will not be required beyond to-day. Everything is quiet at the different police headquarters, but judging from the past as soon as the troops are removed trouble will begin again, and no doubt continue until the courts finally decide all questions between the Bowmanite and Anti-Bowman factions. Mayor Bowman has taken the necessary preliminary steps to apply to the Supreme Court for the que scarrante case recently decided and wait also ask for an order of supercedence pending the re-hearing. The Hilmois & St. Louis Railroad Company applied to Judge Boyder, at Belleville, yeaterday afternoon for an injunction to prevent Mayor Cowman and the city from interfering with their tracklaying, but the Judge refused to hear them. To-day they applied to Judge Baker, at Alton, but the result is not yet known. On the other hand the company was summoned to appear to-day before Judge Baker to answer for contempt of court in disgregarding the injunction against them. A number of ties used yesterday by the company in the attempted extension of their track were burned by the citizens, and it seems that Superintendant Sharman and one or two others engaged in the work were somewhat beaten and bruised. RICHMOND, VA., July 23.—The neighborhood of Fluvania Court House, in this State, was thrown into the wildest excutement by the discovery of one of the most horrible triple murders and suicides ever known in that community. The facts in the case are these:

For several years past Colonel Wilson Houchins, a man of some property and prominence living a short distance from Fluvania Court House, has threatened frequently to murder members of his family, consisting of his wife, a beautiful and accomplished woman of about forty, a daughter about eleven, and two boys, one of seven and the other an infant, and Houchins' mother-in-law. Unfortunately, these threats were disregarded and no attention given to the matter either by the public or the family, although on several occasions Houchins had attempted to carry out his brutal threats. Not long since his wife discovered him standing over her with a drawn dagger, ready to drive it into her heart. In some way she awerted the impending blow. Houchins on that occasion implored his wife not to mention the matter, promising better behavior for the future. Since that time Mrs. Houchins has been compelled to take her children and seek refuge under the roof of her neighbors' houses.

On yesterday morning while the family were seated at the breakfast table Houchins seized an ax and commenced his bloody work, dealing the first blow to his wife, inflicting a horrible wound on her head extending from ear to ear, killing her almost instantly. He then attacked his little boy. The mother-in-law interfered and implored the fiend to desist, but instead of yielding to her appeals for mercy be turned upon her and knocked her severely with the ax handle, cooly returning to the horrible work of buthering his own child. He chopped his head off and threw the body under the table. Then, before his mother revived, Houchins finished her, striking her severely with the ax handle, cooly returning to the horrible work of buthering his own child. He chopped his head off and threw the body under the s Insted.

They were couriers sent with tobacco from the Sioux of the Plains to invite the Sisseton Sioux to join them in bostilities against the whiter; that already eight different bands of Sioux had joined the confederation, and Sitting Bull himself had made a visit this aummer to Standing Rock Agency, where he spent three or four days, in diguise; also that the Government had threatened to take ponies from some of the Sioux Indians on the Missouri, which would be resisted ing and chopping the woman into most unrecognizable mass. seemed especially directed to his wise mother. Houchins' son, a little fellow of seven, came into the room while the horrible butchery was going on, and seizing his infant brother lying in the cradle sought safety in the woods. Houchins looked for them, but failing in this he, it seems, went into the parlor, and left the following parting letter:

"I have intended to do this thing for some time. The devil is in me. My mother-in-law drove me to it. She has tormented me to death. I can not live as long as she lives. She has poisoned my wife and children against me, and I am a miserable man. Whisky, too, has something to do with it. Let all take warning by my end. Pick up my fragments.

"Witzon Houchins."

After completing this Houchins went. The officials of the Indian Office consider the above as purely sensational and entertain no fears of the Sioux tribes joining in hostilities.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 24.—Two men were arrested at Maryville, Monday, supposed to be professional draft raisers. They had purchased drafts at the banks at Maryville, Bethany and Albany, each one for eight or nine dollars. The drafts procured at Albany, being on rafety paper, were disposed of before leaving town. The authorities think they have captured two sharp rascals and are holding them to see if they are not wanted. They registered in different places under different names, one as H. B. Thomas, Boston, and H. B. Ford, Chicago; the other as E. F. Flood, San Francisco, E. T. Flood, Chicago, and E. Flood, Boston. The former is 35 or 40 years old and the latter 26. infernal machine with fire from his pipe through the hung-hole of the keg. A fearful noise followed the explosion, attracting neighbors twelve miles distant. An investigation of the premises disclosed a portion of Houchins' body up in the branches of a tree, forty feet from the ground, the head on top of the barn, and portions of the trank and legs in other portions of the barn yard. The keg contained forty pounds of heavy blasting-powder, which had been used by Houchins for blasting purposes in his quarry near by.

Outside merchants who have paid their subscriptions in advance or who have past due claims in the hands of the agency for collection have, on investigation, become satisfied that everything is all right. The $415,000 which Tappan advanced to the concern is not a liability, the capital etock having been increased three weeks ago a liability, the capital etock having been increased three weeks ago from $100,000 to $500,000, and he having accepted the surplusage in lieu of his claims. This stock is now, in the hands of his creditors, and their interest lies in accepting the situation as any other course would cause a stoppage of the earning power of the sgency, which is its only available assets. Besides thousands of subscriptions having been paid in advance, a stoppage would give a pretext for the demands, aggregating probably $500,000 for unsatisfied balances which the stockholders would be required to meet. The expenditure of Mr. Tappan's four hundred and fitteen thousand dollars has, no doubt, placed the agency upon a firm basis for the transaction of business for some time at least, and there must be a large aggregate amount due it in small sums from branch agencies and ac commissions from merchants for collections made. This view is taken of the case by business men generally, and even by rival agencies. Jenus-McKenzie.

wery essential way, the basis of the understanding of 1873, and I think France has every reason to approve a change, which modifies the combinations formed a part from her, if not against her. The change brought about in England's policy is another consequence, if not of less importance, resulting from the Congress, on which France cannot but congratulate herself. In establishing herself at Cyprus as an advanced guard, and in constituting herself the protectress of the Asiatic interests of Torkey. England has abandoned that policy which I shall call insular to resume her policy of watchfulness on the continent. France can not but hall this change with gladness. Things have returned to their logical and natural course.

The interests of France and England are so closely connected that the return of England to a less narrow policy rescues the two states at the same time from the temporary isolation into which they chanced to fall in consequence of the change brought about by the Congress. The interests of England and Austria are identical in the East. The interest of England and France, already somewhat identical, have become more so, and I congratulate myself in the name of my country on a change which I deem very fortunate and very assuring for every one. I will not enter forther into a detailed examination of the treaty, which I should not be able perhaps to approve in all its parts, but what I have mentioned will prove to you that I cannot be classed among those who are adversaries of the work of the Berlin Congress.
